Speech Communication Minor: A Degree Overview

The minor in Speech Communication is designed for students in all majors. Requirements include three lower division courses and one upper division course. The remaining upper division courses are electives and can be taken in a combination relevant to your major. The upper division classes utilize theories, ideas and concepts of communication in an exploration of new ways of communicating. Critical thinking, written and oral communication, and collaboration are applicable skills to any major area of study, career field, and your personal communication.

Strong writing and speaking skills are sought after in many careers. Students earning a minor in Speech Communication heighten aptitudes applicable to a wide variety of careers including business, public administration, social services, recreation, criminal justice, natural resources, and teaching. Undergraduate education frequently serves as preparation for graduate and professional schools offering advanced degrees in communication, law, counseling, business administration, social work, and other social sciences.
